History of education

As long as we live we continue to learn, and the education we receive when we are young helps us to continue learning. It is thought that schools first started in Egypt 5,000 to 6,000 years ago. Only the sons of nobles attended the first Egyptian schools, which taught reading, physical education and good behavior.
A clear example of the way in which even neighboring peoples produce different types of education comes from ancient Greece. Sparta and Athens were two Greek states. The Spartans, hard and warlike people, gave a purely military education to their children. They were kept under a very strict discipline and were taught hunting, military scouting, swimming and the use of weapons. The Spartans despised literature, and some people think they could not even read.

The Athenians were building what we call a liberal education - one that helps a man to develop all sides of his nature. They thought it is important to educate the body as well as the mind, and had a program of physical training which consisted of running, jumping, wrestling and throwing the discus. As time went on Athenian education paid special attention to reading, writing and literature and these were taught by a special teacher, known as the "grammatist".

Greek philosophers, or thinkers, always discussed what education should try to do and what it should include. Plato wrote a book called "The Republic", which is one of the best books ever written on education. Since those days Greek ideas have influenced European education, especially secondary and university education.

The Romans were very good at organizing, and they were the first people to have schools run by the government free of charge. Throughout their great empire there was a network of these schools which provided for three stages of education: 1) primary schools, where they learned "three R's" (reading, writing, and arithmetic); 2)"grammar" schools to study the Greek and Latin languages and literatures; 3)the schools of rhetoric to be trained in rhetoric, or public speaking.

Britain's Universities

There are about 90 universities in Britain. They are divided into three types: the old universities (Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh Universities), the 19th century universities such as London and Manchester, and the new universities.
Full courses of study offer the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Science. Most degree courses at universities last 3 years, language courses 4 years (including a year spent abroad). Medicine and dentistry courses are longer (5-7 years).
Students may receive grants from their Local Education Authority to help pay for books, accommodation, transport and food. This grant depends on the income of their parents.
Most students live away from home, in flats or hostels.
Students don't usually have a job during term time because the lessons, called lectures, seminars, classes or tutorials (small groups), are full time. However, many students now have to work in the evenings.
University life is considered "an experience". The exams are competitive but the social life and living away from home are also important. The social life is excellent with a lot of clubs, parties, concerts, bars. There are not only universities in Britain but also colleges. Colleges offer courses in teacher training, courses in technology and some professions connected with medicine.

Beyond Our Dreams!

From my point of view our college is modern and well-designed. It is four-storeyed building with a sports ground behind it. I really think it is the best educational institution in Moscow. We even have an inside swimming pool!
On the ground floor there are the classrooms for the first-year students, workshops and a library. There are all kinds of tools and machines in the workshops. In the library two librarians help students to find the books they need. In the reading room there are laptops which we can use during the breaks and after classes.
Our canteen is spacious, light and clean. We have our meals there.
The physical training lessons take place in the gymnasium and the swimming pool. We like to go there even after the lessons. To the left of the gym there is a hall and a staircase. The staircase leads to the first floor.
The classrooms are well-equipped. Each room has a teacher's table, student's desks, a board, a computer and a multimedia projection unit. There are special classrooms for Chemistry, Physics, Biology, History, Geography, English and Russian. My English classroom is on the second floor.

It has three big windows. There are lots of potted plants on the window sills, and we take good care of them. The board in our classroom is magnetic. We write with markers on it and attach our projects to it with magnets. Next to the board there are maps of Russia and Great Britain, various grammar tables and charts. There is a computer in the right-hand corner. We often listen to original English texts, songs and watch films on a big screen which make our lessons interesting. I like my college. It provides us with everything to help us become good specialists.

Moscow State University

The university was established on January 25, 1755 by a decree of Russian Empress Elizabeth. January 25 is still celebrated as the Students' Day in Russia. Originally it was allocated in the Principal Medicine Store on the Red Square, and then the university was transferred by Catherine the Great to the present neoclassical building on the other side of the Mokhovaya Street. In 1940 the university was renamed in honour of its founder Mikhail Lomonosov.
At present the main faculties are situated on Vorobjevy Gory. The building was designed by architect Lev Vladimirovich Rudnev. The main building of Moscow State University was by far the largest. It was also the tallest building in Europe at that time. The central tower ( 240 m and 36 -stories high) was flanked by four huge wings of student and faculty accommodations. It contains a total of 33 kilometers of corridors and 5,000 rooms. The star on the top is large enough to provide a small room and a viewing platform; it weighs 12 tons.
There are a lot of faculties now, such as Faculty of Mechanics and Mathematics, Faculty of Physics, Faculty of Chemistry, Faculty of Psychology, Faculty of Foreign Languages, etc.

Cambridge

The university is like a federation of colleges. It arranges the courses, the lectures and the examinations, and awards the degrees. The universities of Oxford and Cambridge each have over 10000 full-time students. Oxford is older than Cambridge, more philosophical, classical and theological. Cambridge, on the other hand, is more scientifically based. But in many respects (especially their prestige and wealth) they look very alike; therefore they are often referred to collectively for convenience as Oxbridge. They are sometimes called "two intellectual eyes of Britain". Admission to the universities is based on the old tribal patterns which guide boys from traditional schools to traditional universities. Candidates to Oxford and Cambridge are largely self-selected, much influenced by parents, school-friends and family background.
Cambridge started during the $13^{\text {th }}$ century and grew steadily, until today there are more than twenty colleges. Most of them allow visitors to enter the grounds and courtyards. The most popular place from which to view them is from the Backs, where the college grounds go down to the River Cam.
The oldest college is Peterhouse, which was founded in 1284, and the most recent is Robinson College, which was opened in 1977. The most popular is probably King's, because of its magnificent chapel. Its choir of boys and undergraduates is also very well known.
The University was exclusively for men until 1871 when the first women's college was opened Another was opened two years later and a third in 1954. In the 1970s, most colleges opened their doors to both men and women. Almost all the colleges are now mixed, but it will be many years before there are equal numbers of both sexes.

Every year, thousands of students come to Cambridge from overseas to study English.
To the North of this ancient city is the modern face of the University - the Cambridge Science Park, which has developed in response to the need for universities to increase their contact with high technology industry. It was established in 1970 by Trinity College, which has a long scientific tradition going back to Sir Isaac Newton. It is now home to more than sixty companies and research institutes.
The ideas of "science" and "parks" may not seem to go together naturally, but the whole area is in fact very attractively designed, with a lot of space between each building. The planners thought that it was important for people to have a pleasant, park-like environment in which one can work.

We must protect our environment

Our country. Our environment. There are many big and small rivers, green forests, high mountains, lakes and seas in Russia.
Our Earth is our home. I think people must take care of our Motherland.
There are some laws and decisions on this important subject. We have state organizations which pay attention to this problem.
The international conventions pay much attention to the control of pollution too.
There are a lot of industrial enterprises in our country that's why we can't ignore the problem of the protection of our environment. Our main aim is the protection. Our environment must be clean. What must we do for it? ## Pollution

Man has been trying to make his life easier for many centuries. In doing so, he invented machines and instruments. They have been working and polluting the live in.
In this world around us, there are two things that do not belong to any one country: air and ocean water. In both the air and the water, there is much pollution. People are concerned about the air and the water used by everyone, and they also concerned about the future in the Earth.
One of the most important pollution problems is in the oceans. Many ships sail in the ocean water fishing ships, some ships carrying people, some carrying oil. If a ship loses some of the oil in the water or trash from the ships is put into the ocean, the water becomes dirty. Many birds and fish die because of the polluted water. Many fish are dying in sea, others are getting contaminated. Fishermen catch contaminated fish which may be sold in markets and people may get sick from eating them. Fish may also move to another part of the ocean. Lakes and rivers are getting polluted, too. Some beaches are considered dangerous for swimming.
The second important problem is air pollution. Cars and factories pollute the air we use. It also destroys the ozone layer which protects the Earth from dangerous light of the Sun.
Another problem is that our forests are dying from acid rain. This, in its turn, affects the balance of nature. If we want our children to live in the same world we live in, or in a better and healthier world, we must learn to protect the air and the Earth from pollution.

The world of animals

Our country is rich. Its vast territories lie in different climatic zones from the North Pole to subtropics in the South.

Our country's fauna is extremely rich, numbering great amounts of various mammal species, species of birds and fishes. Northern areas are rich in the polar bear, polar fox, seal, walrus, whale, sable wolf, silver fox, brown bear, reindeer, marten, lynx and many others. Most of them are valued for their fur. Various species of birds and fishes are numerous. The southern area of our country is the habit of such representatives of fauna as the lion, leopard, desert lynx, hyena, fox, gazelle, wild goat, red deer, Blue Anthelope Gnu, bison, various kinds of snakes, birds and fishes.

Many species of animals live free of danger from man in national parks.
The first national park was set up in the USA. It is more than one hundred years old. There are 7 such parks in our country.
In 1948, 230 countries organized "The International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources" (IUCN). A lot of State Reservations have been founded since that time. Under their protection some rare animals have multiplied to an extent making hunting possible, so that we can now obtain from them valuable fur, medical raw material and other products.

Forests - Ecosystems or Green Gold?

The forest is a basis for the existence of many organisms. The forest protects the Earth from erosion, prevents evaporation - in this way it feeds rivers and serves home for animals. The forest is not only trees. Under the branches of higher trees, there are lower trees and then - grass, mushrooms, etc. In this way, the density of organisms and their diversity is very high.
Forests are often called "the lungs of the planet". As we know, when man breathes, he consumes air containing oxygen and gives out air containing carbonic gas. So the amount of carbonic gas increases. This gas is also educed in the process of burning. But there is a way back. During the photosynthesis, carbonic gas turns into oxygen. It's the forests that do the main part of work turning CO 2 into O 2 . This explains their name "the lungs of the planet".
In his activity, man needed timber for building and warming his home and fields for growing crops, That's why for hundreds of centuries forests were disappearing and the ecological balance was being changed.
For the first civilizations of people, it was difficult to realize the possible danger. Recently the paleontologists have found out that ecological crises happened in ancient times. One of the tribes of the South American Indians - Anasasi - abruptly left its place of living with roads and irrigation systems around 1200 AD . It happened because they had destroyed forests so violently that the latter didn't replenish on the devastated areas. Similar problems appeared in the $20^{\text {th }}$ century. The only difference was that people started thinking the situation over. That's when ecology appeared.
It's extremely important to take care of forests. If a forest is destroyed because of commercial interests, there will be little water and the erosion will start on the slopes. Thus, the productivity of planes will decrease. This shows how important forests are. For the sake of life on the Earth there must be large areas of natural ecosystems.
Our country does much to preserve forests. In 1942, the so-called "forests of the first group" were created. It is illegal to cut them. Still, much depends on the people. Because of them forest fires take place. It will take one hundred years to grow the similar forest in the same place. It's our task to save natural resources because we are a part of nature, the most reasonable and responsible part. Only if we take care of the Earth, people who'll live after us will have a clean planet, fit for healthy living.

The Main Parts of the System

There are many hardware pieces in a computer system. Some are: system board, power supply, keyboard, mouse, hard drive, monitor and video card and its drivers.
The case is the large metal box and is the main part of the computer. The case and its contents (power supply, system board, etc.) are called the system unit. The case protects the delicate electronics inside.
The keyboard. You communicate with your computer with the keyboard. With it, you type instructions and commands for the computer, and information to be processed and stored. The instruction manuals for most software applications contain a section describing the functions of each key or combination of keys.

The mouse works by sliding it around on a flat surface. To use the mouse, slide it until the pointer's point is on something, like a button or an icon. Then:
Click - position the mouse pointer over an element and press and release the left mouse button one time. Double-click - press the mouse button twice without moving the mouse between clicks. Usually you double-click on an icon to start the program.
Drag - position the mouse pointer over an element, press and hold the left mouse button, and drag the mouse across the screen. The pointer moves, dragging the element
The monitor. Your computer is not complete without the monitor, a TV-like device. The monitor displays text characters and graphics. It allows you to see the results of the work going on inside your system unit. The image that you see is made up of tiny dots called pixels. The sharpness of the picture depends on the number and size of the pixels. The more pixels, the sharper the image is. This is called resolution.

Is there an end to the Computer Race?

Today the word "electronics" is in general usage. Millions of people have electron watches. There are a lot of various radio and TV sets and tape-recorders in our houses. In factories and plants we are surrounded with electronically controlled machines and instruments, we are carried by airplanes, ships, trains and cars with built-in electronic devices and satellites circle the globe. In other words, we are living in an electronic world.
And the center of this world is a tiny silicon plate of a few square millimeters, an integrated circuit, or a chip. The integrated circuit is undoubtedly one of the most sophisticated inventions of man, science and technology. It is in the heart of every electronic device and the more tape-recorders, TV sets and computers we need, the more integrated circuits are required.
When we speak about a further development of computers we mean not only quantity, but also high technology and high speed. In the past it took scientists and researchers a whole lifetime to make a few thousand calculations, whereas for a modern computer this task is a matter of a few seconds.
At present computers capable of performing billions of operations a second are required. Supercomputers are different from ordinary computers. The ordinary computer does the computations operation, while the supercomputer operates like a brain: all operations are being done simultaneously. To develop such a computer qualitatively new integrated circuits were required.

The Role of Technical Progress

The scientific and technical revolution has changed our lives very much. Computers, mobile phones and other digital devices have entered our everyday life.
The atomic, space and energy age was followed by the age of computers. The tasks which had seemed eternal before have been solved one by one by computers. During the last decade, many fundamental changes occurred because of electronic devices. It is even difficult to imagine social and economic consequences of the microelectronic revolution.
The large use of the computers has influenced our lives in such a way that it was difficult to imagine 15 or 20 years ago. On the one hand, computers have simplified our life greatly. If you typed a text on the typewriter and made a mistake, you had to type the whole page again. Making several copies of the same document used to be a difficult job too. But now it's quite different. Correcting mistakes is easy. Computer also helps us to buy goods, find information, book tickets, make presentations and annual reports, and make difficult calculations. Time is saved for leisure.
Leisure time is also influenced by computer and other periphery devices. You no longer go to music shops - many things are available on the Internet. You needn't write letters to your relatives or friends you can send an e-mail. And your photo albums are on the computer too.
Computer games are probably also a part of your free time. They became more and more realistic and complicated, and for many people it becomes impossible to tear themselves away. This means that electronic devices such as a computer and TV set are used mostly for entertainment and consume most of the time that could be spent on work, going for a walk and sleeping. Man becomes a slave of the devices which were designed to make him stronger.
Is there a way out? In fact, there is, but many people don't know it and are still slaves. The best decision is not to give these devices a place in your heart. They should do their work. And when you have a rest, prefer real communication to virtual one and living an active life to watching films about crime. Then electronics will be not our lord or enemy but our friend

As for industries concerned, versatile computers are able to improve the quality of manufactured products and to increase the productivity of industry. Computers are engaged to the control of power stations, plants and refineries. But computers are being used not only in science and industry. Thanks to them, modern medicine can diagnose diseases faster and more thoroughly, while they are becoming valuable medical diagnostic tools.
Also in banking system computers have become indispensable and irreplaceable. Furthermore, architects, designers, and engineers can't imagine their work without computers. Computers form a part of many military systems including communication and fire control. They are applied for automatic piloting and automatic navigation, space exploration.
Moreover computers are widespread in education. Except their classic tasks such as administration and accountancy they are used in process of learning. Firstly, they store enormous amount of data which helps students receive information. Secondly, thanks to special teaching techniques and programmes they enhance cognitive skills of getting and accumulating knowledge.

These machines are really everywhere and we depend on them. They have become so popular that not knowing how to use those means to be illiterate. Many uses of computers that we cannot imagine at present will become commonplace soon.
