Данное учебно-методическое пособие (Часть 1) предназначено для студентов 1^х курсов колледжа, изучавших английский язык в школе. Каждая тема состоит из словаря, лексических и грамматических упражнений, текстов, диалогов и послетекстовых упражнений. Работа над языковым материалом начинается с введения и закрепления лексики, а для её активизации предложены различные типы упражнений. В УМП приведен краткий грамматический справочник и таблица неправильных глаголов.

Dear Natasha,

Thank you very much for your letter. I'm sitting now in favourite armchair and reading it to my husband. We received it with our morning post. We are so glad you are all right.

We have just had a nice holiday of a few weeks, most of which we spent at home. For a week we went out and stayed at Aberyswyth in a hotel near the sea. The hotel is first class but it is rather expensive. Each room has a bath, a TV set and a telephone. Aberyswyth is a small town with lots of brightly painted houses which look very attractive. While we were there we swam, sunbathed and went for long walks along the seashore and in the nearby mountains. It was marvelous.

My brother Willy is in the sixth form at Mayfield Comprehensive School. Although he is fairly bright his teachers think he is lazy and far too interested in out-of-school activities.

Willy's girlfriend, Susan, is two years older. Willy told us that she had left school. Now Susan works as a shop assistant. On Saturday evenings they go to the cinema or to a disco.

Willy is fond of speed cycling. He has a second-hand bike which our mother calls a "death trap". He spends most of his pocket money on the bike.

When I came to see him yesterday he was repairing it and practically had no time to speak to me. He is going to find a job while he is still on his holiday and earn some money for a new speed bike.

About myself

My name is Tanya Bobrova. I am 17. I was born on the 5th of March 2001 in Moscow.

My family is not very large. We have five people in our family. I live with my parents, my younger sister and my grandmother. My father's name is Vladimir Ivanovich. He is forty years old. He is a doctor and he works at a hospital. My mother's name is Lyudmila Leonidovna. She is thirty-nine years old. She is a housewife. My younger sister Natasha is a pupil. She is in the seventh form. My grandmother lives with us. She doesn't work. She is a pensioner. I love my family. We are all friends and we love each other.

Last year I finished school number 92. We had many well-educated teachers at our school. I was a good pupil and I did well in all subjects. My favourite subjects at school were Mathematics, Russian and English. Now I'm a first course student of the college.

I have many friends. Most of them are my classmates. We spend much time together, go for a walk or to a disco party, talk about lessons, music, and discuss our problems.

I like reading. I like detective stories but I prefer to read historical novels of modern writers. I like to listen to modern music, but sometimes I like to listen to some classical music. My favourite composer is Tchaikovsky. I haven't much time to watch TV but sometimes I spend an hour or two watching an interesting film or a news programme. In the evening I often look through fresh newspapers or read some interesting book. I like fresh air and exercises, but I have not much time for doing sports.

My friends

I have many friends but my best friend is Peter. He is fifteen. Now we are first year students of the technical school. He is a good student because he studies hard and is very diligent. He wants to become a good specialist. He often helps me with my English lessons and I'm grateful to him for that. We made friends with Peter When he and his family moved to our house. We have very much in common: we like the same music, we both like reading.

Now a few words about his appearance. He is rather tall, strong and well-built. He has an oval face, straight nose, dark-brown hair, blue eyes and a nice smile. People find him good-looking. Peter is a good sportsman. He goes in for sports. He plays football and basketball well.

I have another friend. Her name is Natasha. She is a schoolgirl and she lives next door. She is blonde with blue eyes, she is slim and pretty. She has long fair hair. She likes riding a bike and computer games.

I like all my friends very much. I think they are all my faithful friends.

The Importance of Family

In Western Europe and the USA, family life has changed dramatically over the last forty years. The number of families that depend on most parents going out to work, or where there is one parent raising the children alone, is much greater than it used to be. Also, many more people move away from their families than ever before. Despite these changes, most people still think of their family as one of the most significant parts of their lives.

A recent American survey showed that most people think that spending time at home is more important than earning a high salary or having a challenging job. The majority of young people surveyed said that they would be happy to earn less money if they had more time to spend with their loved ones. Older people also commented that they had worked too hard in the past when they should have been with their families. Even if the typical family doesn't follow the traditional model today, it is still a vital part of our lives.

26 ОТВЕТЬ НА ВОПРОСЫ

1. How has changed family life in the USA and Western Europe?
2. What did a recent American survey show?
3. What did most people say about the family?
4. What is more important, in your opinion, to be with your family more time or to earn a high salary, spending much time at your job?

My biography (Mark Twain)

I was born on the 30th of November 1835 in the village of Florida, Missouri. My father was John Marshall Clemens.

According to tradition some of my great-great parents were pirates and slave traders – a respectable trade in the 16th century. In my time I wished to be a pirate myself.

My parents who had lived in Virginia moved to the South in the early thirtieth. I do not remember just when, for I was not born then and did not take any interest in such things.

They had made a long and tiring journey before they settled in Florida. The village contained a hundred people and I was born. I increased the population by one per cent. It had two streets, each about three hundred yards long, and a lot of lanes. Both the streets and the lanes were paved with the same material – black mud in wet times, deep dust in dry. Most of the houses were of wood – they were none of brick and none of stone. Everywhere around were fields and woods.

Not long ago someone sent me a picture of the house in which I had been born. I have always thought that it was a palace but I no longer think so and don't feel proud of it.

My day

Yesterday was a hard day for Dima Yaroslavtsev. He stood up too late and didn't have his breakfast. He went to college and remembered that he had left his pencil case at home. Besides, he said some unpleasant words to his friend and offended him.

"Misfortunes never come alone," thought Dima when he came home, "the day is spoiled."

Today Dima's father, Sergey Vassilievich, got up a quarter to seven and did his bed. Then he took a shower, brushed his teeth, dressed and packed his briefcase for work. "Have you brushed your teeth?" he asked his son.

"Yes, I have done it. I'm also ready. Let's go and have breakfast."

The day was very good for Dima. He came to college in time, and he was ready to answer any question the teacher asked.

Today he had the classes of mathematics, Russian, English and physics. It was very difficult to study because there were many new things. But the textbooks were good, and the tasks were clear. His groupmate Igor didn't study maths well at school, so he didn't understand the new material. But the teacher patiently explained, and everybody understood the task.

After classes, the students went to different hobby groups. Dima is fond of computers, so he went to programming club.

There are ten students in the club besides him. Today the topic was cycles. At home, Dima rewrote one of the programs and inserted a cycle there.

After the club, Dima went home and had dinner. All the family was together, except father, who was still at the plant. They discussed the events of the day.

After dinner, Dima had a rest, did his homework, read books from the college library. Then his college friends phoned him and called him for a walk.

When he came back, he had supper, got ready for the next day and went to bed.

This time, he was satisfied with his day and decided to plan it carefully in the future.

My name is Tanya. I'm Russian. I'm a typist. I work in the bank. I like my job. I'm not married. I live with my mum and my sister. We live in the centre of Smolensk. I also have a brother who lives in Novosibirsk but I haven't seen him for ages. My mum is a dentist. My sister is a teacher of English. Last year she taught Russian in Scotland at Glasgow University.

I usually get up about seven o'clock and go jogging. Then I have breakfast – coffee or tea and some sandwiches. After this I go to the bank. It takes me about an hour to get there. My boss gives me lots of work to do. I want to learn English because I need it in my job. My sister tries to teach me but she thinks that my English is poor because I don't work hard enough.

I have a boyfriend. His name is Philip. He is 19. He is a musician. I met him through my work about a year ago and we began going out together. We share so many things together. Nowadays young people don't like classical music. They prefer pop music. Some years ago I preferred pop music too. Philip invited me to some very good concerts of classical music. It was great. I'm very grateful to Philip because now I understand how wrong I was going only to pop concerts. Philip and I are fond of swimming and skiing. At the weekend we go out for a meal, to the cinema or to see our friends. Next weekend we are going to see a detective film in the cinema that is just opposite my house.

Last winter Philip and I decided to spend a holiday together. We planned to go to Saint-Petersburg. We had never been there before. But we didn't go there because of accommodation problems. All the hotels are very expensive and unfortunately we don't have any friends there.

So we spent a week with my aunt who lives in a village. We asked a lot. In the evenings we sat near the fire-place watching TV. We had a very good time.

British Homes

There (to be) 22 million homes in Britain – big homes and small homes, old cottages and new buildings, houses and flats. Many British people (to love) old houses. They also (to love) gardening, and there (to be) gardens everywhere you go: in towns, villages and in the country. Two thirds of families in Britain (to own) their houses. Millions of these houses (to be) the same with two or three bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs, dining room and kitchen downstairs. There (to be) a great many different kinds of homes in Britain, but there (to be) not enough! It (to be) often very difficult for young people to find a home when they (to want) to start a family. British homes (to be) usually smaller than American homes. But like Americans, different generations usually (not to live) in the same house.

Mike rents an apartment (or a flat as they say in Britain) in a modern 15-storey building not far from his office. It is very convenient because he can walk there. It takes him not more than 7 minutes. His flat which looks on Regent's Park, is on the 12th floor, so Mike can see all the park, London Zoo and the Planetarium from his window. Though the flat is small, it is quite comfortable for one person to live in: it has a living-room, a well-equipped modern kitchen and bathroom with a shower. It has got no central heating but it is rather warm. There is only one problem: the flat is too noisy, because there is a disco on the ground floor and music goes on quite late every night. So no wonder Mike is going to find a new flat away from the noise.

So Many Men so Many Minds

Alexander's family has a flat in a new block of flats on the outskirts of Moscow. Their flat is on the fourth floor.

Alexander's foreign friends – Peter, Jane and Nora – are now in Moscow.

At the weekend they come to Alexander to have a look at his new flat. Alexander welcomes them on the landing. He shows them all the modern conveniences: central heating, running hot and cold water, electricity, gas, the internet, two lifts and a chute to carry rubbish down, as well as three rooms, a kitchen and a balcony.

Peter is a future designer. He gives Alexander a piece of advice to change the wallpaper colours in his bedroom and rearrange some pieces of furniture. Peter says: "Look! It would be right to put the bookcase closer to the right-hand corner. I think your wallpaper should be pink."

Jane is not a designer. She is a sociology student, but she has good taste. Jane likes Alexander's library with a lot of English and Russian books, the cozy kitchen and the paintings on the walls. But Jane doesn't like the carpet on the floor. "It is not in fashion now", she explains to Alex. As for the wallpaper colours in Alex's room, Jane prefers them in green.

Alexander is at a loss. He looks at the wallpaper in his room and at the carpet on the floor. Whose advice to follow?

18. Какие из данных утверждений верные, а какие неверные.

5. Jane is not a designer but she works for a building company.
6. Jane thinks that Alexander does not follow fashion trends.
7. She recommends Alexander to change the wallpaper in the living-room
8. Jane prefers it in pink.
9. Peter thinks it is better to move the bookcase.
10. Alex is ready to follow his advice.

ТЕКСТЫ ДЛЯ ЧТЕНИЯ

Do many Englishmen live in houses?

In Britain families like to live in houses rather than in flats or apartments. "Apartments" is American English.

78% of people live in houses and only 21% live in flats.

Most houses are made of brick.

Many live in two storey terraced or semi-detached houses. Sometimes when people get older they move to a bungalow which is a house with only one storey.

A country cottage which is made of stone or a mansion is only a dream for most people.

While in most European countries in particular in cities, people tend to live in flats, a high percentage of British families live in houses with their own gardens. The majority of houses and flats are owned by the people who live in them, while about 35 per cent are rented, mostly from the local councils.

Whole terraces of 19th century workers' houses are being renovated in many cities and new housing estates are being built on factory wastelands and in disused docklands. Some of these new residential areas are so pleasant that better-off families like living in them and the houses are becoming too expensive for workers with low incomes.

There are more than 30 new towns in Britain. They all have been planned and built since 1945. They have a park-like quality; the houses are surrounded by green open spaces, gardens and trees. The central square is a shopping precinct, or traffic-free zone, which is covered on all sides to keep shoppers dry. Each new town, with populations between fifty and eighty thousand, has its well-designed industrial estate within cycling distance of every home.

British Meals

Alexander already has some ideas about typical British food. The usual meals are breakfast, lunch, tea and dinner. Breakfast is generally a bigger meal than they have on the Continent, though some English people like a "continental" breakfast of rolls and butter and coffee. But the usual English breakfast is porridge or cornflakes with milk or cream and sugar, bacon and eggs, marmalade (made from oranges) with buttered toast, and tea or coffee. For a change you can have a boiled egg, cold ham or perhaps fish.

They generally have lunch about one o'clock. The businessman in London usually finds it impossible to come home for lunch, and so he goes to a café or restaurant; but if they can make it home for lunch, they have cold meat (left over probably from yesterday's dinner), potatoes, salad and pickles, with a pudding or fruit to follow. Sometimes we have a mutton chop, or steak and chips, followed by biscuits and cheese, and some people like a glass of light beer with lunch.

Afternoon tea you can hardly call a meal, but it is a sociable sort of thing, as friends often come in then for a chat while they have their cup of tea, cake or biscuits.

In some houses dinner is the bigger meal of the day. They begin with soup, followed by fish, roast chicken, potatoes and vegetables, a sweet, fruit and nuts, coffee. But in great many English homes we make the midday meal the chief one of the day, and in the evening we have simple dinner an omelette, or sausages, sometimes bacon and eggs and sometimes just bread and cheese, a cup of coffee or cocoa and fruit.

My uncle Albert always has “high tea”. He says he has no use for these “afternoon teas” where you try to hold a cup of tea in one hand and a piece of bread and butter about as thin as a sheet of paper in the other. He’s a Lancashire man, and nearly everyone in Lancashire likes high tea. They have it between five and six o’clock, and they have ham or tongue and tomatoes and salad, or sausages, with good strong tea, plenty of bread and butter, then stewed fruit, or a tin of pears, apricots or pineapple with cream or custard and pastries or a good cake. And that’s what they call a good tea.

HAVING A MEAL IN A RESTAURANT

John Good evening
Waiter Good evening. Have you booked a table?
John Yes. A table for two at eight o'clock.
Waiter Ah, yes. Mr Williams?
John That's right.
Waiter Your table is ready now, sir. Come this way.
At the table
John Could we have the menu and the wine list, please?
Waiter Here you are, sir.
John What would you like to start with, Daniela?
Daniela I'll have asparagus soup... and then the duck.
John And I'll take the pate and then ... well, I'm not sure what to have next.
 (to waiter) What do you recommend?
Waiter The beef casserole is very good, sir.
John OK. I'll take that, then.
Daniela I've changed my mind. I'll have that too.
Waiter What vegetables would you like?
Daniela I'll have a salad.
Later
Water Would you like a dessert, madam?
Daniela Yes, please. I'll have the cheesecake.
Water And for you, sir?
John Nothing for me, thank you.
At the end of the meal
John Could we have two coffees, please?
Waiter Certainly. White or black?
Daniela Black for me, please.
John I'll take mine with milk. And could you bring the check, please?
Waiter Pardon, sir? Oh, the bill!
John Yes, the bill.
Waiter Here you are, sir.

John Is service included?
 Waiter Yes, sir.
 John Do you take credit cards?
 Waiter Yes, sir.
 John Is this one OK?
 Waiter That'll do nicely, sir. I hope you both enjoyed your meal.
 Daniela Yes, we enjoyed it very much. And you were right about the beef-it was very good.

Notes

That'll do nicely That's fine
Pardon This is what you say when you don't hear or understand what someone says to you
Is service included? Many restaurants in Britain add ten or fifteen per cent to the bill. This is called a service charge. If this has been added it is not necessary to give a tip, although you may want to if the service has been very good.
Casserole a mixture of different things cooked together.

ENGLISH MEALS

An Englishman's day begins when he sits down to breakfast with his morning paper. As he scans the headlines there is nothing he likes better than his favorite breakfast of cornflakes with milk and sugar or bacon and eggs, toast and marmalade, tea or coffee.

Round about 11 in the morning some Englishmen who work have their tea or coffee break. They never call it a meal, of course. Tea or coffee is usually brought to the factory bench or office desk.

Then at mid-day, everything is stopped for lunch. Most offices and small shops are closed for an hour, say from 1 till 12, and the city pavements are full of people on their way to cafes. Factory workers usually eat in their canteens.

The usual mid-day meal consists of two courses. First a meat course is served with plenty of vegetables. It may be potatoes, peas, beans, cabbage or cauliflower. This is followed by a sweet dish, perhaps fruit pudding with tea to follow.

Most Englishmen like what they call “good plain food”. They must be able to recognize what they are eating. Usually they like steak, chops, roast-beef, Yorkshire pudding and fish and chips.

They are not over-fond of soup remarking that it doesn’t leave sufficient for the more important meat course.

Those who eat at home usually call their mid-day meal dinner and make it the chief one of the day. It consists of three or four courses and is cooked by the mother of the family.

The first course is soup. Then comes fish or meat served with various vegetables; as a change they sometimes eat chicken or duck.

Then the table is cleared and the dessert is brought on. This is jelly or fruit – apples, pears, oranges, plums and nuts.

Afternoon tea is taken at about five o’clock, but can hardly be called a meal. It is a cup of tea with bread-and-butter and cake or biscuits. It is not often served at a table; each person has a cup and saucer, a spoon and a small plate in his hands. Even Englishmen themselves do not always find it convenient.

The evening meal, when all the family gather round the table after their working day, goes under various names – tea, high tea, dinner or supper (depending upon its size). It is usually a meat course followed by canned fruit or cake and tea. But it is not the same in every English home. Tastes differ.

EAT TO RELAX

We all know that eating of healthy foods helps us to live longer and to ward off the danger of strokes or heart disease. A healthy lifestyle, which includes and regular exercise and a diet with lots of fruit and vegetables, not only keeps the doctor away but also makes us to feel good. Being in good health is an important way for to reduce stress, but this is not the only benefit of eating properly. In particular, the types of food that we eat influence on our moods. Eating carbohydrate-rich foods like breads, cereals, rice and pasta it causes the production of serotonin, which makes us feel calm. Fruit and vegetables also set off the production of this chemical, but in too smaller doses. Milk, cheese and the yoghurt can also help, especially when they eaten together with carbohydrates. The next time you feel stressed, try a little piece bread and a glass of milk and you'll feel relaxed in no time.
